

HUMANITIES

As a discipline, humanities courses examine cultural traditions through an integrative and critical examination of human achievements in art, literature, philosophy, and music. This academic area focuses on the big questions of meaning, ethical and aesthetic value, expression, belief, and the human spirit. Humanities courses satisfy general education requirements for an associate degree, a liberal arts degree in humanities, and lower division transfer. The Honors Program includes one humanities course: HUM 101H Humanities - Prehistory through the Medieval Period - Honors.

Learning Outcomes

This discipline prepares students to do the following:

- Use the terminology of logical analysis or other argumentative skills to evaluate cultural geographical arguments, in order to formulate a well-reasoned philosophical thesis, and to demonstrate critical thinking skills.
- Develop tolerance and respect for religious and cultural geographical views different from one's own by showing awareness of possible objections to one's own view, using college level vocabulary and proper grammar.
- Read original texts from a wide range of the history of Humanities (either thematic or chronological focus) to become acquainted with the rich variety of religious and cultural traditions, including the literary, philosophic, artistic, and musical disciplines, to show understanding of major philosophical issues appropriate to a transferable course.
