Examples of Required Writing Assignments

Students will select a country to evaluate. Students will be looking at this country from every possible perspective; including culture, doing business in other foreign countries, politics & law, international trade, currency and exchange rates, the economic climate, trade barriers, international economic relations, international strategy, management, including human resource management, and any other aspect deemed important or relevant to the region you select. Your research could include an interview with a person who has either lived or worked in this country, or who is from this country. It will be very interesting to have a first-hand impression of life in this region. You may interview them or submit a list of questions for them to fill out. Your written materials should be in essay format and you must cite your resources. The paper can include articles, interview records, observation summaries and documented Internet sources.

Examples of Outside Assignments

Read and submit one newspaper article that relates to a current (topic discussed in class) international business related topic. In one paragraph, summarize (describe) what the article is about. In two to three paragraphs, discuss how the article relates to international business. Your discussion should include whether you agree or disagree with the writer's viewpoint, how it pertains to you personally, and how it pertains to the course material discussed in class or the text. You must be specific and should refer to pages in the textbook.

The goal of this assignment is to acquaint you with current international business practices and is not to be an elaborate paper.
